

The Color Company (TM) Limited Computer & Internet Usage Policy

Virus Notice

Although The Color Company attempt to keep all computers virus free by utilising anti-virus protection software, virus infections may still occur.

Use of any computer terminal at The Color Company is at your own risk and The Color Company will not be responsible in any way for viruses and damages to your personal property.

If you think your disk may be infected, or the anti-virus software alerts you of a potential risk, please contact a member of staff for assistance.

Be Safe

Protect your personal information

Please be aware that this is a public access computer that transmits private information in an unsecured environment. Any personal information such as credit card details may not be secure against unauthorised access from third parties. The Color Company cannot guarantee the security of your personal data. By choosing to do so, you assume the risk of any unauthorised third-party access. You are solely responsible for the protection of your personal details. The Color Company recommend that you do not use these terminals to access internet sites that contain or require you to input personal identifiable information.

Copyright Notice

All intellectual works (programs, data, pictures etc.) are automatically covered by copyright. Under the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act of 1988, the owner of the copyright has the exclusive right to copy the work.

For computer software this means that it is illegal to copy or distribute software, or its documentation, without the permission of the copyright owner.

The Color Company does not authorise the use of this computer for the reproduction of any of these items that are protected by copyright law. The person using this machine would be liable for any infringement of this law.